Join the movement to advance measurement science

Mission: To make rigorous, accurate, and standards-aligned measurement science education accessible to every calibration technician, metrology engineer, student, and educator who depends on measurement quality — regardless of geography, institution, or resource level.

A measurement community where every practitioner is competent and has continuous, standards-grounded access to the knowledge they need to perform accurate, traceable, and compliant measurement work.

Features

Core Conversation & Standards Access

At it's core... Every MetTutor conversation runs on the MetLibrary RAG — a curated knowledge base of 15,000+ metrology data chunks.

MetLibrary is the difference between an AI that guesses and one that knows. Every response cites the source standard and clause in APA 7 format, so you always know exactly where the information comes from.
